Today i was going through some old issues that i had to work on, while doing so i found a few old issues and many old files like amtlfb files etc. The issue that i am facing is that whenever i open the files of the packages that i had in the adobe photoshop cs6, it says " the document that you are opening was created in older versions of the software", i can open these files if i restart the computer and re-open it, but it is annoying and time consuming, what can be the possible reasons for this? A: It has to do with how you are opening them. If you are opening them in Adobe CS6 and it doesn't recognize the document format you are trying to open it in (likely because of the version of the software you are running, and the format of the document) it can appear as "the document that you are opening was created in older versions of the software". I've found the best way to deal with this is to open the document in Adobe Illustrator. Then click the File button on the top toolbar and select Save As. This will open the Save As dialogue box, where you can type the filename you want. Then Save. Then you can re-open the document in Photoshop.
